

MONTI

Ready for your holidays from summer 2024

An old forest house is being recreated

CONCEPT

In 1932, the MIRAMONTI opened its first three rooms as a mountain guesthouse.

In 2024, the MIRAMONTI grows and MONTI makes now part of it.

3 Houses

At the edge of the forest. One thought: feeling of warmth and security. Embedded in a stylish harmony that connects these retreats with the originality of nature and the region. Executed in a design language that speaks the sound of tranquillity and the sound of MIRAMONTI.

Every Wednesday

we meet at the Jour Fixe to exchange ideas and realise visions with the designer Harry Thaler and the architect Andreas Zanier - to create the MONTI houses: As a harmonious and atmospheric extension of our MM concept, which offers creatives individuals and makers, connoisseurs and world travellers, lovers and friends a fixed point in a fast-paced world - in a charismatic style and panoramic location high above Merano.

Harry Thaler

is a product designer. After his education as a goldsmith, he completed his design studies at the „Royal College of Art“ in London in 2010. Thaler's design is based on high quality craftsmanship, with sustainability, functionality and elegance being key characteristics of his work. Harry Thaler is a lecturer at the Free University of Bolzano, Faculty of Design and Arts. In 2013 Thaler he established his design studio in East London, today it is located in a restored silo in Lana-Merano.

What you will find there? The important. The valuable.

This what silently and timelessly opens up a space, that breathes tranquillity. Nature. Wood. Softness. And when your fingertips touch this space - its living materials, its regional authenticity, its strength - you get this feeling of serene generosity. This grounding. This letting go. And we are there. In the MONTI houses. The new MM forest home, built on solid rock.

And it seems as if a part of us has always been here, waiting for us. In us - and in the middle of nature, with the hiking trails around us. Whose forest noises form the soundscape. These rooms have their own tone. And a beauty that can only be created by hand. Which has already begun to vibrate with the first pencil strokes on designer Harry Thaler's sketch paper: As a sustainable climate house with geothermal heat - and in three individual units just 200 metres away from the MIRAMONTI.

The powerful sound can be felt – in every individually designed object. In every piece of handmade furniture. In every calmly woven fibre. In every detail, selected with love. Combined into a stylish ensemble, MONTI creates a delicate flair, a rich privacy and a harmonious home for couples and families.

Where the neighbourhood also offers valuable things:
A stone's throw away is the Sulfner riding stable with its precious horses. The St. Kathrein church, which gives the area the ambience of a Romanesque work of art, is in its panorama. And all around: forest. Mountain. And the knowledge that you are standing on solid rock. High above the cultural, leisure and sporting city of Merano.

Beautiful.

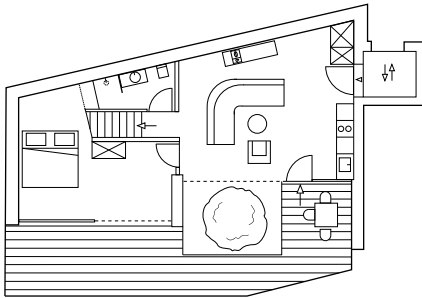

To be able to be here at MONTI.
